

Lesson Plan for IAEA Show Work - Madison Glass, Stockton High School

Taken from "Tape Layer Paintings" from Art of Education. <https://www.theartofed.com/?s=tape+layer+paintings>

This project was one I saw on the Art of Education website when I took the studio painting course last summer. I wanted to have the 3 & 4th year students learn more about abstract art and just to have some fun with the different color schemes and play around with symmetry. In their sketchbooks, the students needed to plan out the order of their color schemes and their overall design. Most did a mirror symmetry design with only a few pushing the design into something with more thought. The overall project had to have 4 total layers and the students were able to choose one type of color scheme that the projects must have. (monochromatic)
