The Lion Head

The lion head symbol was introduced in 1986 as an alternative national symbol of Singapore.

It adopted the same red and white colour on the Singapore national flag. The lion head symbolises courage, strength and excellence as well as resilience in the face of challenges. Its tenacious mane symbolises the nation's single-minded resolve to rise to any challenges and overcome any obstacles.

Do You Know?

When the lion head symbol was first unveiled, some sections of the public felt that it should face rightwards to represent a more forward looking nature.
